We are School Spirit. You may not have noticed us in all the round of classes, study, club work, party-going, and general excitement that typifies a year at college, but we were there—in fact, we caused it all—with your help, of course. Some of you have strange impressions of us. There are those who think of us as slick-magazine “togetherness” or enthusiastic rah-rahism, and on the other hand, those who dismiss us as a piece of nonsense that stands between them and a degree. So much for that—what we are is harder to define. Those of you who feel you belong at Montana, who feel that you are as much a part of the University as it is of you, who work as constantly toward its betterment as you do toward your own individual goals—you know what we are—we’re a part of you, and without you we would be nothing. We’ve been here waiting for you all along, and when you leave, though many of us will still be here working through those who have come to take your places, some of us will remain with you. Your memories of Montana will be, if you like, a Message from Departed Spirits.

"We must become inflamed with a noble desire to contribute something from our own means to the rich heritage of truth, morality and freedom that we have received from our forefathers; we must pass it on to posterity richly increased, and must seek to fortify our own fleeting existence by attaching it to this imperishable chain, which winds its way through all the generations of men."

—Johann Christoph Friedrich von Schiller

And that, in the words of Schiller, is what we're here for. There are those who don't think so, and those who aren't quite sure what they think—but whatever reasons be concocted, proving them and being bothered by them is half the fun—it's all in the game, and this book is a record of how the game is played.

FALL QUARTER .....	4
WINTER QUARTER .....	98
SPRING QUARTER .....	170

A long summer's rest found us ready to get back to work as you returned to the campus for another year. You're easy to work on at first—only later, when enthusiasm starts to fade, do we call in reserves—if enough of you want it. Newly-arrived freshmen, strangely enough, seem to know what we are already—until some of the problem cases among you get to them, but they need orienting and rushing—that's our first big job of the year. The hectic pace of fall quarter is chiefly our doing, too—we stir it up and leave it for you to control—quite a chore for both of us.

fall quarter

First days on campus for hundreds of newcomers poses the problems of acquainting them with the University and with each other, and getting them advised, registered and ready to begin the year—all this in one short week. Traditionally more confusing than enlightening, Orientation Week is showing signs of progress in the hands of a newly-created special committee, and is slated for further reforms.

Orientation Week

...ting ready for the Big Switch
...on high school to college—a

...the annual SCC-sponsored Fresh-
...an Camp.

First encounter with the campus leads to Orientation in the literal sense—with a ready guidebook, a group of beanie-clad frosh try to get their bearings in the midst of a maze of sidewalks and buildings.

Library

Patiently, if grimly, enduring pilferage and budget-trimming, the Library proudly bears its mantle of ivy, hung in appropriate academic fashion, and remains a home-away-from-home for burners of midnight oil—though it has its share of those who just stray in to watch others do the burning.

Readily available Spurs and Bearpaws descended on visiting parents and ushered them off on campus tours; freshmen sons and daughters waited their chance, armed themselves with maps, and scouted around on their own in search of campus landmarks and the shorter dorm-to-class routes. By the end of the week, they sported a hard-won familiarity with the lay of the land: end of orientation procedure, round one.

Health Center

Campus sick bay, newly-built and too comfortable to be a hospital —after the last of the flu victims cleared out, there were those who moved in with every intention of calling it home.

Main Hall

Sacrosanct administrative nerve-center and number one campus landmark—even the bricks look collegiate, and a towerful of carillons completes the picture. Under its impressive archway, one of the University's most hallowed traditions is enacted as students gather for Singing on the Steps.

Field House

Dedicated in 1953 and currently the object of much budgetary wrangling, the Field House provides a home for the athletic department and central accounting office, the Grizzly cage team, and weather-stricken ROTC companies.

Big, impressive, and versatile, its arena is kept in fairly constant use for events ranging from fall registration and spring commencement to dances, horse shows, circuses, rodeos, and many other space-hungry spectacles.

The Lodge

The busiest building on campus, the Martell-supervised, student-populated Lodge has yet to earn the name "Student Union". ASMSU and AWS call it home, and thanks to its new extension, so do the Student Store and an expanded Food Service. Witnesses many long committee meetings, assorted dances and banquets, and, down in the Grill or the atmosphere-engineered "Room", pinochle games, coffee breaks and a never-ending hum of conversation.

Campus coffee-shop, cafeteria, and sometime classroom—the Grill, noted for endless lunchlines, mid-morning crowds, and stout coffee guaranteed to clear out 8 a.m. cobwebs.

And on into the week—lying in wait for all frosh and students-to-be-oriented was a formidable battery of exams, designed to reveal everything from lung-spots to skill at tackling irregular French verbs—in short, overall mental and physical ability to make it through the four years ahead. The mass testing continued for days—and all the while, group leaders were hard at work keeping up the pace of Orientation's more informal side.

A pounding, probing and jabbing reserve corps of local doctors and assistants ran a record number of examinees through the mill during three days of intensive testing.

After all the regular testing came placement exams for those who wanted advanced courses in math (as below) and languages without benefit of University prerequisites.

Bearpaw Sam Ragland exchanges fee receipts for ASMSU Activity Cards—citations for having weathered registration to become duly-enrolled students.

On the homestretch—a formal check of class cards by a troop of sharp-eyed clerks, and the job is finished.

You're on your own during registration—just confer with your adviser, get into a line that looks promising, and hope for the best. Take comfort in the thought that even season veterans are usually baffled by it. The registrar's office, carried away by its IBM-revolution, reduced the student body into columns of numbers and set a time limit of three days on the the Field House jumble—they made it, too.

Orientation Week Committee

Organized under Mortar Board auspices to organize many of the week's activities, keep them at a level of mild hysteria, and supervise harassed group leaders.

Kay Pappas, Jan Mende, Jeff Watson, Colette Gergurich, Konnie Feig, chairman, Deanna Evans, Barbara Wood, Dee Uhl.

A group of freshmen inspect the M-Club display at the Activities Jamboree, an afternoon-long session to acquaint freshmen with campus organizations.

Meanwhile, freshmen were organized into groups supervised by upperclass counselors who gave them advice, answers, and a social program designed to fill up the few left-over vacant hours.

First brush with tradition—a long line of neophytes wound its way up Mt. Sentinel to whiten up the "M" as the first week drew to a close.

Jean Tate and Glenda Gum "Standing on the Corner" and giving Clarice Lam the once-over to entertain the Jitney Party crowd in the Corbin lounge.

Painting the "M", getting together to plan Stunt Nite skits, hopping from dorm to dorm at the Jitney Party, touring the campus, meeting with group leaders—freshmen welcomed first classes with a sigh of relief. Orientation Week was quite an experience, if a little exhausting.

Stunt Nite in University Theater—fresh groups competed with one another in presenting skits; the Committee had its doubts, but many new friends were made during rowdy practice sessions.

At the top—T-Board supplied enough whitewash to take care of Spurs, hundreds of freshmen, Bearpaws, a goodly chunk of Mt. Sentinel, and occasionally the "M". But then, it has to be redone in the spring, anyway.

Freshmen—first step in a four-year mellowing process:

a breed apart for a quarter or so; carriers of an enthusiasm as refreshing as it is rare.

Theirs is a world of getting acquainted, making friends, sitting through survey courses and being exposed to new ideas:

"Next week, we've got to get organized!"

The Craig lounge is generally not the place to cram, but with 110 study rooms, Duane Olson decides to chance it.

Typical scene—gathered around the hi-fi, looking generally pre-occupied, and anxiously waiting for the Sunday dinner line to open.

Our home! New and beautiful, and those giant picture windows feature a spectacular view of young grass blades struggling for their lives on what was once Maurice Avenue.

Craig Hall

Between bouts with the books, roommates John Maxwell and Steve Kirk hold an earnest discussion on the fine art of Frisbee-throwing.

Communications with the Tri-angle dorms made another bale of kale for the Bell estate. To wit: "North Corbin? This is Harvey Wolke, and if any of you sweet young things are getting bored over there . . ."

Proctors George Walker, Bill Martell, and Gene Bell debate the possible type of execution to be imposed upon the poor inmate (center) who has lost his key.

Life at Craig is never dull—socially, wing parties and infrequent form functions help the men relax; telephones are handy and forever busy; study rooms are large and appropriately musty; and there are fire alarms to be set off occasionally. Head Resident Westby and the many proctors serve as policemen, guidance counselors, fathers, and mayors. Year-end resident turnover is high as men move out into houses, but the next fall will bring a new crop of tenants to take their places.

A moment of solitude in usually crowded laundry rooms, where clothes get washed despite lathered floors, knee-deep water, and burnt-out irons.

Far court ping-pong champ Ken Fordik's wrist action may dazzle his opponents, but TV fans next door remain unimpressed.

Be it tennis or not, Charlotte Nelson and Anne McClain sign out for the evening with jubilant thoughts of freedom.

BRANTLY OFFICERS: Dixie Dawson, 1st vice-president; Janice Loy, president; Jane Hughes, secretary-treasurer; Mary Lou Montague, 2nd vice-president.

Triangle

A collective dorm-government system, Triangle enables the three freshman women's dorms to act as a unit as well as look like one.

Jan Hansen, either startled by the lurking photographer or next in line stands in the midst of Brantly's nightly checking-in ceremony. Doorknob in hand, Housemother Moore waits patiently on the sidelines.

Brantly Hall—no-man's land—headquarters of the three-dorm freshman women's Triangle, where the housemothers stand patiently by and await their chance to lock up on weekend nights. Like its sister dorms, Brantly faces losing its identity in the dorm-system, but loyalty is still high despite sorority competition.

Brantly Hall

Co-eds' lair, widow's walk and all, with a soupcou of North Corbin at the far left.

Bug science, boys, Madame Bovary, and crushes on Dr. Brown—all found their way into Brantly-basement study sessions.

Most popular man-about-dorm Rich Martin was crowned Peppermint Prince by Triangle Prexy Arnst.

Corbin Hall

Seven-thirty brings a telephoneless two hours and gives the girls on second a chance to get back to the books: Vivien Weaver, Edrie Parker, Shirlee David.

Corbin means home for another third of the freshman women, and along with its own annex and Brantly, it empties out completely at year's end as the girls move into Greek Row or Turner Hall. Until recently it was a men's dorm, and some of its occupants wish that something along that line could be re-arranged.

Oh well—so they study: corridor chairmen, housemothers, and junior sponsors look after them; and every night the big door in front goes bang.

Ivy-bestrewn Corbin—behind the bricks, chicks.

OFFICERS: Clarice Lam, 1st vice-president; Harriet Kimball, 2nd vice-president; Willie Gough, president; Bobbie Miller, secretary-treasurer.

North Corbin links the dorm system together and houses the rest of the fairer-sex freshmen. Annex girls participate in Triangle-planned functions, notably the traditional Peppermint Prince Ball; they receive their share of serenades, have a try at intramurals, study like fiends, act ladylike, act rowdy, and are generally impossible to reach by telephone after study hours.

Comparison of the intricacies of bop at the dorms' winter quarter function: Triangle Prexy Arnst demonstrates Fort Benion style for her date.

Roommates Blaskovich and Jatoba turned to their bug-science books to learn more about this strange power they have over the opposite sex; then in walked the unsuspecting photog—pic didn't get developed for weeks.

North Corbin Hall

OFFICERS: Jean Tate, 2nd vice-president; Barbara Williams, president; Nadine Powers, secretary-treasurer; Roxanne Shelton 1st vice-president.

Rush Week

Open season on freshmen—a week-long stint of parties, coffee-hours, dinners, handshakes, and tours enables rushees to choose their houses and Greeks to pick their percentages. Another Rush Week—subject of a yearly hassle with the dean's office, preceded by frantic last-minute housecleaning and redecorating, and followed by smiles and congratulations all around.

Karen Larson, Jack Upshaw, and Gary Phillips set up shop in the Lodge lunchline and registered pre-queued freshman for Rush.

Before the fun begins—a crowd of registrants waits in front of the Lodge to be led off to Greek Row and the nightly round of parties.

Handicapped by an off-Greek Row address and perennially small size, the ATO's are making a sure but slow comeback. While playing an unassuming role in campus affairs, they are a closely-knit group that knows how to have fun—the year's functions included the formal Esquire Ball, a Gay Nineties Party, and a Calypso Dance; for in-between times, there was always their own basement bistro, the Turtle Club.

A rushee chooses a house—Claudia Lillie industriously fastens pledge ribbons on Lorraine Peterson as Nancy Trask and Heather McLeod stand by to congratulate their new sister.

Although they were generally well-behaved this year, the Tri Deltas still found time to furnish neighboring Phi Deltas with snowballs and buckets of water (in season); their strangely professional-looking striptease won them Songfest laurels; grades, as usual, didn't bother them a bit—they just laughed and went on planning their next little escapade.

Still houseless but still hopeful, newcomer Delta Sigma Phi manages to hold on somehow and make fraternity men out of former rugged individualists. Noted for high grades and successful functions, Delta Sigs costumed up for their Sphinx Ball, crowned their first queen, controlled the SENTINEL, studied furiously, and grew steadily more experienced in things fraternal.

 expanding to include other types; boasts a fine panoramic view

Sigma Phi Epsilon

Sigma Phi Epsilon, which expands periodically to rival the Big Four in size, has a solid reputation as a house on the go; features a fine choral group composed of its many music majors; crowns the year's first Greek queen at its Queen of Hearts Ball; and is noted for the ready smile and friendly handshake which wins many a post-Rush Week pledge.

When the question is raised as to just why the house with the red door is the one to pledge, the Sig Eps are right there to answer it.

Campus Life

With Orientation Week and Rush out of the way, we turned to the endless round of dances, football games, concerts, and plays that somehow manages to be dovetailed with studying. First on the agenda was Homecoming—then we started scores of clubs off on another year, gathered crowds for games and the first functions, cheered, caroled, and watched for sputniks.

Nothing makes a crowd look more like a crowd than a stadium to sit in. Yelling "Oh darn, two bucks to sit in the barn!", Grizzly fans took up a sizeable section of Gatton Field when the team went to Bozeman to take on the Bobcats.

Everyone except maintenance department decided that the new Baby Oval was perfect for bonfires—this one, with fire trucks standing by, helped out the pre-Homecoming pep rally.

Arriving on campus with the first returning students came Asiatic flu, which kept the infirmary busy for weeks. Early victim John Gesell soon had plenty of company.

Back to classes, and there's work ahead for all concerned—filling blue books, correcting them, taking notes, preparing lectures, and putting up with the season's latter-day lawnmowing racket.

Pat Shaffer runs through a song in Opera Workshop. Delores Pauling, Myrna Jo Gatz, Judy Riddle, and Ju Patton await their turns.

First classes—eight o'clock came mighty early; hunger pangs started in around ten. Exams, term papers, and study tables managed to find a place on an evening's schedule—took a while to get back into stride after a long summer.

Linguist Lesley Mortimer supervises a class in language lab, part of every first-year language student's schedule.

Academia

Started the year early and put all the livers to good use every Monday noon. Nasty old officer Bob Johnson has his men to see that they don't offend esthetic ideals of any stray superiors in red.

out to staff ASMSU vacancies with man representatives and a new vice-president; Rich Martin mans the booth—the Firm just dropped by to put in his plea for revolution.

Acrobatically inclined photographer catches lone Craig Hall inmate (note bars on window) busily burning midnight electricity as final week draws near.

Greek Row Americana—like the rest of us, Sigma Nus stored up on sleep for the long year ahead when adademia—in one form or another—would shorten those nights.

Turner Hall float-building enthusiasts collaborated with like-minded Phi Deltis, dragged out the napkins and chicken wire, and began turning that truck into a parade entry.

And here's the result—it didn't place, but it was fun anyway.

Parade on the homestretch—the Sigma Chi-Sigma Kappa float heads back down Higgins to await a half-time appearance at the afternoon's game.

J. J. Moore, Class of '07 and featured week speaker, presents a bouquet to Queen K. DuVail, newly crowned and delighted, as Friday night SOS draws to a close.

Homecoming

Alums' night to howl—and they descended on the campus in droves to see how things had changed. Homecoming Committee stayed up late nights scheduling receptions and banquets, pairing off houses for float-building to the theme of "Moments to Remember," and getting the parade together. When it was over, the campus had its first new queen, the Lodge placed a rush order for more napkins, and another game had been lost.

...een the floats came assorted bands and a bevy of beautiful princesses—e.g., Theta candidate Susie Cummins.

Feature attraction of the afternoon was the game; the score, Denver's 26 to Montana's 13, proved to visiting alums that some things hadn't changed at all.

...the winning entry—a 100-horsepower prairie schooner, put together with loving care by Sigma Nus and Tri-Delts—made its way around the gridiron at half-time.

A proposed panty-raid that went down to defeat before M-Club shock troops; a Friday Club "gray flannel mind" issue as expounded by Dr. Fiedler that kept Kaimin contributors busy with the pro and the con; a friendly and cuddly new virus from the Orient; earnest discussions on the honors system—all these made fall quarter headlines.

$50,000 goal for a 1000-seat chapel, said hustlers Tom Monahan, Tommie Lu Middleton, and Tom Payne as they looked over the proposed location of the religious center-to-be.

Ex-Montanan Gary Cooper arrived on campus to confer with the J-School's Dorothy Johnson (left) on the filming of her story The Hanging Tree, in which cowboy Cooper will star.

Another luminary—art department's Walter Hook and VL Committeemen John Gesell, Freda Smith, and Larry Pettit gather round Vincent Price before he goes on stage as the season's first visiting lecturer.

Still another—Victor Borge, who filled the Field House with audience and then regaled it with his hilarious one-man Comedy in Music.

Talent imported from MCHS—the Spartanoires sang at Charity Ball intermission time.

Another import—KBTK's Carrousel brought in a disk jockey and disks to broadcast nightly from the Lodge lobby.

Miscellany

Romeo Ruby and Juliet Riddle brought another dramatic triumph to University Theater—this time to help Kams and Dregs celebrate the Bozeman Convo.

Off to the Bozeman game via chartered train—boys on the prowl discover the baggage car.

Hucksters Judy Blakely and Bob Vogel ped hunting licenses on the Baby Oval as customer Julie Dupuy prepares to get in on the chase.

Joe Hughes and friend—after the Kickapoo Joy Juice came the Matrimonial Stomp.

What with all this posing for the Kaiman photographer, a gal doesn't have much time of her own to get out and snag a man!

Sadie Hawkins Day

Dogpatch revisited and roles reversed—hundreds of cords, turned predatorily female at Spur's urging, bought "hunting licenses" and set out to get their men. Unlike the real, Al Capp-inspired thing, trapped males remained the legal property of their captors only for the duration of the dance.

Christmas Week

By way of ushering in the Yule season, AWS sent women's living groups out caroling, campus musical ensembles collaborated to present the Christmas Convo, trees were decorated hither and yon, and study-weary students awaited final week and the long vacation to follow.

Caroling Night, when women's living groups repaid the men for a year of pinning-serenades. Above, Alpha Phi nears the end of its itinerary with a stop at Craig Hall.

Eliot men took time out from last-minute studying for finals to invite visiting carolers in for a little relaxation.

A Cappella Choir and Symphonette—an impressive combination for an impressive occasion: the annual Christmas Convocation.

Football

The 1957 season began on a dismal note as Asiatic flu invaded the ranks and Earl Keeley, around whom the offense was built, developed bursitis; final results were even worse—two wins out of seven conference games and a one-up-from-cellar position in Skyline standings. Post-season honorable mentions for several Grizzlies, notably lineman Renning's All-America nod, brightened up the gloom, but there were those who thought the 1957 record was a basis for insisting on MSU's withdrawal from Skyline competition. Head Coach Williams went to Philadelphia on business, liked it, decided to stay; under new Coach Jenkins, the Grizzlies went into spring training and looked forward optimistically to the fall season.

And you think you've got troubles—think of the poor Grizzly who has to get himself and that ball past half the New Mexico team.

Shrilling whistles bring New Mexico to a screeching halt as referees come running to untangle the mess.

Snow was infrequent and temperatures balmy, but winter finally arrived. After a busy autumn, we took a breather while you studied—but there was still plenty for us to do: we kept after musicians and foresters while they planned their dances, crowned queen after queen, helped the Grizzlies through another successful basketball season, took a weekend off to go skiing, then came back to help you do a little grade-curve sharpening and get ourselves in condition for spring.

This is Hibernation Quarter—ten short weeks full of long nights and longer assignments, when overloads run rampant and midnight oil burns low; when activity-minded students turn last-minute cramming into a science. Something new was added this quarter—a system of “honors” classes in biology, psychology, and history for high-apptitude students, a long-awaited dream which at last reached trial stage.

Classes

Father Anthony M. Brown, (above, center) who received his M.S. from New York's St. Bonaventure University, presented his requirements before the higher echelons of the Education School and was awarded a doctorate—MSU's first—at the end of winter quarter.

Mary Ellen McAvoy performs a reversing-of-perspective experiment as John Mroz keeps time. Students in the special section of psychology 101, they discarded the text after the third week and turned to upperclass work and individual experimentation under the guidance of Dr. Ammons.

The Junior—the one with the occupational sneer—is an upperclassman, though few realize it.

This year he takes upper-division classes, and next year, barring this or that, he graduates. Reputations have been earned, for better or worse, but the mellowing process goes on—call it maturity, if you will. Still time for a few major changes and big campus activities; a few recollections of the last two years, but more thought about those to come.

Brook Farm revisited—an experiment in cooperative living at 601 Daly that has proved quite successful since its organization in 1942. Synadelphic girls fight off the rising cost of living by taking turns with the housework; still manage to remain campus-active and keep the house's grades near the top of the list.

An evening's entertainment—listening to the pipes roar down in the study room; trying to study at the same time is good mental exercise.

OFFICERS: Art Youngman, vice-president; Terry Daniel, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Ruth Berry, housemother; Teddy Roe, president; Phil Kimery, social chairman.

Elrod Hall

Herb Anderson and Phil Shelton take to the lounge to study while the background crowd thinks up a more original way to spend the evening.

Bull session with guitar obligato—on the wall, the Elrod Hall of Fame.

Elrod Hall, home of foresters, dyed-in-the-wool independents, and a few siray freshmen, is known for its grade-point average, social reticence, and good-natured rowdiness. Between novels, House-mother-authoress Berry somehow manages to keep things running smoothly and tries to solidify a vague Elrod tradition of group loyalty.

The social aspect—mid-Spring mingling at a formal function.

Not even cries of "Man on Third!" or popping fiancé can disturb these Turner studyists—they're probably comparing notes on Peyton Place, while the lone girl hasn't read it marks down chapters that sound interesting.

Turner Hall

Home for three years of an upperclasswoman's life, Turner features a spacious lawn for segregated sunbathing, occasional seated services with Craig Hall, another Homecoming Queen, independent residents who don't let hall organization bother them, monthly pajama parties, and a plush lounge which witnessed several honorary teas. Turner girls went to breakfast in Brantly via their own underground tunnel, spent the rest of their time studying, getting engaged, and being sedate.

Turner Hall—three years of upper-class society dedicated to somnolence, study and sunbathing.

OFFICERS

 FRONT ROW: Miriam Leib, SCU representative; Jewel Moore, publicity chairman; Kay Dubay, Kay Cronk, secretary.
 NOT PICTURED: Carol Aandahl, treasurer.

A quiet hour of meditation in the study room, featuring Lorrie Wilson (left) at work on the next exciting episode of another term paper.

Marcus Daly's bed, a relic of Montana in the 1890's, being made ready for the opening of the University Museum on Charter Day by Bearpaws Rich Marito, Gary Bradley, and Pete Trask.

February 17, and MSU celebrated its 68th birthday with an impressive Charter Day Convocation in University Theater. Dorothy Johnson, principal speaker, used many display items in the new museum to illustrate her comparison of present day life with Montana's younger days.

Campus Life

Between week-long bouts with strange weather and overloaded class schedules, you witnessed many of the year's prime functions, designed to take your minds off your troubles and possibly add a few more. Club work went into high gear, AWS elected, the museum was set up and dedicated, Greek houses traded snow whenever they could get it, and final week rushed in with the first breath of spring.

Freshman Camp

Before the rush and hustle of Orientation Week, freshmen and transfer students met at Seeley Lake for a Student Christian Council-sponsored weekend of fun, discussion, and early introduction to the campus.

Campers spent many hours in earnest discussions and forums concerning their lives at MSU; many more playing volleyball, planning the inevitable skits, and throwing each other into the lake.

Religious Organizations

Aided and encouraged by the School of Religion and coordinated by Student Christian Council, the many campus religious groups offered students of all faiths an opportunity to combine college activities with service to their church.

Affiliated School of Religion

Dr. Richard Ford, asst. prof.; Rev. Glenn Johnson, Dr. Deane Fenn, asst. prof. and director.

Intervarsity Christian Fellowship

Intervarsity Christian Fellowship is an interdenominational evangelical organization whose purpose is to consider the challenge of the Christian religion to today's college and university students.

Clubs

By winter quarter, clubs and organizations for many departments and many interests were well into the year's activities, providing a means of escape from classroom sweat and presenting opportunities for working up a little more.

Besides those pictured below, several loosely-organized discussion groups invited student participation:

Social Science Forum, Liberal Arts Club, International Relations Club, the now-famous Friday Club, and the forever infamous Thank-God-It's-Friday Club.

Montana Forum

In its ninth year of activity as a Friday-noon discussion group, Montana Forum often had difficulty finding controversy to mull over; spring quarter, when the McFarland-State Board battle was at its height, it found too much to handle—meetings were thrown open to the campus at large, then quickly closed up after members of the faculty began barbed speeches which had amazed students looking on like natives contemplating Lowell Thomas.

Kams and Dregs, the only genuine white-collar organization on campus, kept the spirit hopping—for a while, anyway—with its 6 a.m. initiation and dance, wiener roast and baby shower on the new Baby Oval (at which they also celebrated the forty-first anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution—American Legion passed this one up), football feasts both at home and in Bozeman, and its winter pickle sale.

MSU debaters continued in their usually fine style to win many honors in the field of argumentation; first in the state; first in a triangle tournament with WSC and Idaho; fifth in western states over seventy other schools; and second place tie in the National Tournament at Lexington, Kentucky—Haney and Johnson beating a team that hadn't lost in two years.

Women's Recreational Association

Every woman student, whether she realizes it or not, is automatically a member of WRA: Women's M-Club, composed of the few who have won varsity letters, operates concurrently with it. WRA sponsored intramural competition for women throughout the year, held a get-acquainted Gym Jam fall quarter, and took off for Flathead Lake in May for its Intercollegiate Playday.

Late in spring, the athletes provided Interscholastic divertissement with their annual M-Club Fights; and Pete Rhinehart, named outstanding athlete of the year, was awarded the Grizzly Cup.

Organized in 1912 to promote the interests of forestry and the social lives of its advocates; a noteworthy item during the year was the headway gained by the fairer sex as Miss Dora Ratzberg was made an honorary member and became, along with mascot Bertha, the only female in the ranks. The Foresters' Ball, far and away the group's most ambitious project, was preceded and followed by several smaller functions, including the annual spring hike. Disaster of the year: the spring basketball classic, which saw the woodsmen defeated by archrival lawyers in a tussle "pithy with pathos".

Calm, consistent Editor GALE BRAMMER kept a firm hold on his well-established, if rather conservative, opinions on the function of a campus newspaper and led the Kaimin through an eventful year with precision and care. Staff coordination, policy matters, and general editorializing were all part of his daily routine. When associates, delighting in the freedom of initiative given them, began to stray, Brammer diplomacy seldom failed to show itself.

A typical day for Business Manager MARYELLEN BROWN included planning advertising layouts, keeping a close check on things financial and another on her staff of ad-chasers, and going another round with the editorial staff over the issue's ad space.

Adviser ED DUGAN upon being confronted with a nasty rumor that the MSC Exponent won a Pulitzer. Dugan specialized in advertising problems, championed the Kaimin before Pub Board, kept the staff from wandering off the journalistic track, and served as mainstay of the J-School bowling team.

Maryellen Brown, Reporters Jim McKay and Teddy Roe, Editor Brammer, and Ted Huebert in a huddle around the copy desk in a last-minute flurry of activity before deadline time.

Slot-man-for-a-day Huebert took weekly stint at the copy desk; the paper at bed; Business Manager Brown okays the issue's ad spots. Reporter McKay runs an through the rewrite mill.

News Editor TED HULBERT took charge of rounding up campus news and cracking the whip over the reporting staff. He also contributed his share of Editorials and his own "Word in Edgewise" column.

Sports Editor FRANK CREPEAU followed the Grizzlies through thick and thin, handed out assignments to assure coverage of intramural happenings, and stood by the UP tucker to await national sports news.

Rings and Pins, Society, and all non-news items came under the jurisdiction of Feature Editor ANNE THOMAS and her cohort, Marilyn Lundin. Efficient Anne will return to the Kaimin next year as business manager.

Photographer LARRY DAVID provided the Kaimin with two quarters of picture coverage. Anne Thomas, took up the feature editor's spare time, and then went on to give some spring-quarter help to the Sentinel.

The campus beat, as covered by Editor Brammer and his staff of journalists-in-training. Columns of things newsworthy around the University were judiciously interspersed with Bibler cartoons and monstrous

Malboro ads; an alert editorial page delved deep into controversy; and for lay expressers of opinion, so did "Letters to the Editor". After the spring changeover, new Editor

Hulbert ignored competition from a renegade broadside and turned his scream-lined paper loose on an investigation of the McFarland-State Board skirmish.

Kaimin

Editor Brammer and Associates Hulbert, Crepeau, David, and Thomas keep the copy desk busy after hours, this time to see who gets to draw salary for the month.

Editor JOHN GESELL moved into the new offices with the furniture and became as permanent a fixture as he fought a last-ditch battle to get a late book out on time. Pica stick in hand, he took on an avalanche of copy, cartoons, layouts, deadlines, and darkroom troubles and emerged flashing a victory smile despite a haunted look in his eye and a grim set to his jaws.

Frost begins to form as Business Manager D. C. HODGES thinks he senses an impending request for more money. Penny-pinching was only one of his worries—there were contracts to be rounded up, pictures to be scheduled, public relations to be manipulated, and an editor to ride herd on—all of which left him little time to contemplate his brand-new ulcer.

Busy Spur president, committee worker, and Associate Editor HELENE LOY spent long hours devising methods of luring unsuspecting freshman girls over to the office to help her with her classes and Greek sections, developed picture-sorting monotony into something of a science.

Associate Editor KATIE LOU JOHNSON, and bosom friend, the office's monstrous paper-cutter—the two of them managed to get baskets of pictures trimmed to size. Odd-jobs girl Katie Lou spent an interesting Christmas vacation typing index cards, returned to try her hand at pasting and paneling.

Sentinel

Associate Editor JACK UPSHAW caught in an unguarded moment. Jack joined the staff spring quarter and began by gathering copy data and dreaming up ways to develop his theme ideas, but decided instead to take a try at getting his '59 book out a year ahead of schedule.

Moral support department: adviser CYRILLE VAN DUSE, accustomed to campus politics, yearbook confusion, stood to offer counsel, condolences, criticism as the situation warred. She managed, somehow, to keep John in cigarettes and pre-line panic at a minimum.

Venture

DICK BROOKING
Editor

Somewhere on campus lurks budding literary and artist's talent, and Venture is out to discover it and present it to the public. Between quarterly issues, Brooking's staff weighed and pondered prospective copy, waged campaigns to convince the hesitating that they should indeed contribute, and investigated state high schools to see how the literary set of the younger generation was coming along.

Student recruiters hand-picked by Pub-Travel and assorted faculty members became salesmanship-conscious and teamed up in shifts to visit Montana high schools and convince future collegians that MSU is the place to go.

College and Career Days

Another sample of the Sidney College and Career Days program; Kay Thomas, Ursula Davis, Bob Higham, Jack Uphaw, ROTC's Capt. Harper, and Pharmacy's Dr. Van Horne made this trip a success.

A view from the beams—Disneyland was never like this.

Beard contest finalists lined up to be judged by a brace of local beauticians and barbers.

Customers who were still thirsty by the time they reached the dance found an atypical coke-bar among the attractions on the streets of Frontier Town.

And, for those who wanted to take time out for vittles, Frontier Town also boasted the only Chuckwagon cafe with appliances by Westinghouse.

Paul Bunyanesque blue snow cascaded down on the crowd; there were some who thought the sky was falling in.

Intermission highlight—a gen-u-wine Western ballad sung by gen-u-wine frontiersmen.

Spending months in earnest preparation, foresters made an all-out effort to pin down broad-minded chaperons and chopped away at trees for miles around for use in transforming the Field House into something akin to Disneyland's Frontier Town. Delighting in rowdy advertising for rowdier dances, patrons sprouted beards and livened up the campus before the Ball rolled around—when it did, they took to livening up themselves.

Foresters' Ball

End of an era—Lynn Boe (left) entered his "most unusual" beard in the shaving contest and uncovered skin that hadn't seen daylight in months.

Ski Weekend

Ski Club's "raison d'être"—planning the annual weekend sortie up to north-woody Whitefish, where the snow lies deep and bandage-white.

A sizeable crowd of veterans and greenhorns alike signed up for the trip and spent a giddy three days whizzing down the slopes of Big Mountain.

Ski Club

An association of the hundreds of campus ski-enthusiasts with the broad purpose of furthering their sport and planning occasional trips into the snowy hills; more specifically, the group takes over the chore of arranging and publicizing its annual Ski Weekend.

Wind-burned, snow-blinded, and dog-tired Ski Weekenders returned to the Big Mountain Lodge for refueling and an evening's rest before starting all over again the next morning.

Saturday-night climax for the Weekend—starting at the top in an "M" formation, skiers lit up torches and formed a blazing path down the dark trails of Big Mountain.

Night Club Dance

Piano Paula Heidelman keeps up the rhythm of "Sing, Sing, Sing"; Saxophones Sandy Croonenberghs, Gaye Stewart, and Gail Howard prepare to make an entrance, all expertly choreographed by Marnie Cooper.

A floor-show performer's view of the crowded Cascade Room during intermission, when house lights were dimmed and second-night patrons were treated to an hour of music and talent.

Fantasmagoria, with dancers posing as abstractions to musical instruments, was the featured ballet presentation. Here Saxophone Gaye Stewart jures on Drum Riley Huston as Clarinet Joanne Lento bides her time in an arlesque.

lubileers of the fairer sex teamed up opposite their partners and tore into a lusty version of My Fair Lady's "With a Little Bit O' Luck."

Byron Christian and Larry Nitz sang the saga of "Johnny Henry" as Don Fregren and Don Robirds manned the guitars in accompaniment.

Throatle-throated songstress Pat Shaffer turned on the torch and began the beguine.

Campus Capers Judy Riddle and Byron Christian went on stage with "There Once Was A Man," from their repertoire of Pajama Game hits.

Music majors and ballet classes were kept busy for weeks preparing the spectacular floor show for the year's plushest dance. It was well worth the effort—prices were high, but so was the planning committee's taste. Ballet "Fantasmagoria" was based on Benny Goodman's "Sing, Sing, Sing," and the many vocalists and ensembles did just that.

Mardi Gras

Luisa Jabota and Dan Kirby exchange mutual congratulations upon being chosen to reign over the Mardi Gras (next picture was even better).

Barker Tony Buzzetti gathers in the crowd to win the Sigma Nu bingo booth first place money-making competition.

"A pie in the eye of a Sigma Chi will win you a bucket of beer!"—and Dick Johnson sweats a special-occasion pledge duties.

Carnival night, courtesy of Newman Club—pie throwers, ring tossers, and bingo fans took time out to applaud royalty, dance amidst the competing booths, and enjoy a last fling before Lent.

Earlier in the week, an impromptu parade displayed king and queen hopefuls to the electorate.

Screwball singer Judy Riddle breaks into song during intermission-floorshow time as fellow Campus Capers Bill Williamson, Cara Boggess, Bob Ruby, and By Christian take time out to form part of her audience.

"Hey, hey—ho, ho—wake up!"—and the Campus Capers broke into their familiar theme as they ended another successful appearance.

Winter Weekend

ASMSU Veep Temple Brown calls forth Sharon Beeman and Jack Cogswell to crown them King and Queen of Winter Weekend.

But it might as well be spring. After a futile wait for raw materials, a determined

AWS decided to dispense with the Weekend's snow sculpture and hold their celebration while there was still some justification for its name.

Ski-suited dancers belied the weather, welcomed newly-elected '58 AWS officers, and witnessed the coronation of the Snow King and Queen.

Miscellany

Dr. Harold Urey, (left) Nobel prize-winning physicist and one of Montana's most outstanding alumni, made a brief appearance on campus early in the quarter to renew old acquaintances—such as Professor Emeritus H. G. Merriam (above), and speak on the modern approach to physics.

Coloradan Ray Jenkins arrived from Boulder to take over his duties as the new head football coach; was met at the airport by a Bearpaw-Spur greeting committee and a horde of reporters, including MSU's J. D. Coleman (right).

KGVO's Don Weston and Erling Jorgenson of the J-School interviewed visiting lecturer Morris Ernst (right) in an early broadcast from the newly-christened MSU radio lab.

Peripatetic Journalist Russell Brines, a VL Committee offering, talks shop with the J-School's Dr. Yu before going on stage to discuss the world situation as he sees it.

The popular Four Freshmen packed University Theater with jazz addicts and grew progressive-r and progressive-r as the evening wore on—a genuine big name band, the year's first, courtesy of Dance Committee.

Then came the Red Cross with needles and bottles to spare, inviting the student body to part with a pint or two. Ha! who's got blood?

Quarrel support for Dr. Carter's boycott of the Lodge over outlandish tea-prices appeared in the form of "Free Tea Day." Ring-leaders Judy Orcutt and Willard Colston rounded up a camp stove, donated tea and sugar, and set up shop in the Grill, where Orcutt set 'em up (below, for t'aul Fry) and Colston brewed.

Winter Quarter headline items: the University entered the lists for a joust with the American Legion—topic: Our Subversive Speakers, which brought on a vigorous blast from the "Kaimin" and a firm denial from President McFarland; overseas, Near East crises began to worry eligible I-A's; and overhead, a brace of baby moons was sent up to Join Sputnik.

Dream Girl

Winter Quarter produced a bumper crop of kings and queens as many annual formals were given to honor them. "Esquire" magazine selected ATO's Esquire Girl; Sigma Chi, Theta Chi, and Delta Sigma Phi added to the list of Greek Queens, and the Thetas stepped forward to crown a king at thier Bohemian Party. Campus vote provided royalty for the Mardi Gras and Winter Weekend dances.

As the last cheers died over Dornblaser Field and winter blew in through Hellgate, campus sports fans turned to Field House spectatorship for an unpredictable, topsy-turvy basketball season that saw the Grizzlies finish in a tie with Denver University for fifth and sixth—considerably off the 1957 third-place position—but for the second year, Montana led the conference in team defense.

An indication of Montana's scoring balance was seen in the statistical 10-points-per-game average of five

Silvertip regulars—Powell, Erickson, Sheriff,

Balko, and Dunham. Junior forward Powell led scoring with 288 points in 22 games for a 13.1 game average. Powell and Balko both scored 24 points for individual single-game highs. Field goal shooting improved over 1957, free-throw scores declined, and rebound-retrieving soared. Despite the loss of four seniors, Coach Cox looks forward to the '59 season with not unwarranted optimism.

Riflery

Although it received little publicity on campus, the MSU rifle team continued to make intermountain and national riflery well aware of its existence, blazing its way into a position of some prominence to share the spot of top-scoring sport with the swimming team. High-point man of the year was John Foster, who was rated among the top twenty riflemen in the nation, led the Western Division, and was named to the All-American second team. Betsy ROTC, MSU and MSC's traveling riflery trophy, found a home at MSU this year.

Have gun, will travel—high-scoring marksman Frank Tetrault plans to continue with his riflery prowess at MSC next year; graduation claimed his top-ranking teammates, Foster and David.

Swimming

Successful as the '58 season was, the Grizzly tank team had to take a backseat to the sensational freshmen in its midst, who hold great promise for future years. Among the regulars, workhorse McKinnon sparked a spectacular team, taking several first places and setting a new pool record in the 100-yard event.

Musiccoach Barendsen, accompanied by the Faculty String Quartet, presented a late encore to her recital of the week before and sang the tale of "The Temptation of Saint Anthony" before an engrossed audience in the Lodge's Yellowstone Room.

Organist George Shirley in one of the quarter's senior recitals—despite stage jitters, Bach and Hindemith never sounded so good.

members played on—with the added attraction of senior recitals, given by music students in partial fulfillment of graduation requirements.

Fine Arts

Popular, versatile, and brimful of talent—a band with class that appeared in concert during the quarter and proved its skill all over again with blare and flair; the ensemble's program included "Tandem Toccata", by the Music School's Weigel, and a guest star, famed reed soloist Alfred Gallodoro. Concert accomplished, the band went out on a spring tour of the state, returned to perform for Music Meet visitors and Commencement exercises.

Worried womankind helped George Bernard Shaw bring to its ultimate end the legend of Don Juan in his intermezzo from "Man and Superman"—the Great Lover meets one of his prize conquests in her inevitable resting place and tries to convince her that it's really not such a bad spot after all. The Masquer production, with its stark settings and limited action, proved two things: (1) that hell is no place for a lady, and (2) that all Shavian characters need is body enough to keep their tongues flying.

More Shaw, this time on a more standard plane and with a little pshaw thrown in for good measure: the pastor's wife had a poet friend, and being a Shavian woman who knew what was expected of her, she proved her point by choosing the weaker of the two—her successful, humbled husband. It was a triangle with unconventional corners, and the Masquers brought it to life and took it on tour of the state, where audiences enjoyed it reservedly—so did the M-Club.

And spring came—time of high temperatures and low instincts, when energy stored up from winter quarter was turned loose on the less-intellectual pursuits. Having survived rain, hail, sleet, and snow, we went on to tackle seasonal mud and begin close-quarter skirmishes with style-cramping spring fever. Sample: you wake up one morning and the weather's beautiful and the birds are singing and you don't feel like studying and classrooms are hot—and there you sit, wretched creature, with twenty credits. Sounds hopeless, but no time to pause and reflect—there's a staggering schedule ahead for the next eleven weeks: Leadership Camp, WUS Week, ASMSU elections, Interscholastic—the works.

Spring
quarter

A day of crisis—following his refusal to dismiss eighteen faculty members upon economy-move orders from the State Board of Education, President McFarland handed in his resignation. News of the prepared faculty-trimming prompted emergency Central Board meetings to discuss the issue and call for a general ASMSU Convocation, where CB President Roger Baty (below) asked for an all-out vote of confidence in favor of McFarland's program.

News of the President's resignation, following closely behind that of faculty-cut orders, ushered in a morning of demonstrations, protests, and a CB-inspired boycott of classes. The Victory Cart took off clanging down Higgins, followed by a motorcade and a horde of students growing hoarse in support of McFarland. The demonstration, capped by the ASMSU Convo, was a rousing success—but enthusiasm waned in the weeks that followed, and early in May the State Board voted to accept McFarland's resignation, was countered by only a brief flurry of protest on campus.

President met State Board and battle was joined—we watched controversy unfold before Montana Forum and decided the atmosphere was right for conjuring up a much needed burst of spirited interest in the future of the University. Secondary efforts went into the schedule of free and easy weekends and picnics that had taken over from winter's elaborate functions. Then Science Fair, Music Meet, and Interscholastic brought three waves of high-school visitors and our last big jobs of the year.

CENTRAL BOARD

President ROGER BATY, elected by a bandwagonful of University-minded voters, lived up to the expectations seen in him, and proved to be a thoughtful, mature leader who displayed keen interest in the behind-the-scenes problems of student government. With an eye for the theoretical, Roger tackled the practicalities of his position, and kept trying to increase CB's authority by proposed reorganization and better contacts with the higher-up.

Business Manager BOB HIGHAM quickly became one of the busiest men around campus as he took charge of budgeting the $84,000 student-activity fund and directed his Budget and Finance Committee through a year of pleas and thank-you's. Trying to track down ubiquitous financial "deals", a job in itself, proved to be one of Bob's major headaches—another was the suggestion that the athletic department receive half of the tentatively proposed activity fee increase.

Keeping track of minutes, trying to get hours of CH activity boiled down into readable essentials, mimeographed, and distributed, and handling much of the official ASMSU correspondence — these day-to-day chores were the responsibility of typically pretty, blonde secretary SUE WILLIAMS.

Vice-president, ASMSU social chairman, and sometime NSA Supervisor TEMPIE BROWN kept a watchful eye on committee work as general coordinator, a position clarified by the new constitution. As chairman of Activities Board, she conferred with activities chairmen, arranged and scheduled campus social functions.

Former football star DICK DZIVI took over the helm as Chairman of the still-controversial J-Council and set out to prove to critics that student court opinion could indeed show its influence in the dean's office. Supervising the Council through interviews and considerations of penalties to be paid, and conferences at Main Hall took up many of Dick's free hours.

Anxious introspection provided a key topic for ASMSU spokesmen as they began to wonder just how much power and authority the institution of student government could actually muster; on this note, discussions on closer ties with the administration were begun—the Student-Faculty Senate idea was broached again. On a more immediately practical line, NSA and its coordinator assisted in general committee-structure reshuffling, Budget and Finance produced its quota of general-fund allocations for the final okay (among them: a whopping $7,000 to be sunk into the golf course)—and all the while the old constitution was breathing its last, had to be rewritten, was finally approved in the spring elections. The Judiciary, firmly declaring thumbs down on publicity, stood guard over the liquor regulations together with the dean's office and went on quietly building up its strength.

ASMSU Committees

Busy work around campus is referred to any one of seventeen ASMSU committees as its nature warrants. Under the newly adopted committee structure, the Student Government group deals with matters directly affecting campus politics; Activities Board plans and schedules the many activities in and around the Lodge; social weekend events and general publicity and tradition-upholding comes under the jurisdiction of Student Affairs; wider-than-campus issues are handled by the International Affairs section—all of which adds up to many hours of administrative work for the civic-minded on campus.

Student Government:

BUDGET AND FINANCE

Business manager's committee in charge of budgeting the annual student-activity income and doling out the leftover general fund to various campus organizations upon urgent, convincing request. Boyd Roth, Bob Bruce, John Melton, Colette Gergurich, Connie Feig, Bob Higham, chairman; Bob Dundas, adviser; Deanna Evans, Jerry Agen, Bill Pearce, Paul Ulrich.

PUBLICATIONS BOARD

Regulates all campus journalistic policy; recommends appointments to top Kaimin, Sentinel, and Venture positions; approves publications budgets, and receives sporadic progress reports.

STANDING: Dean Andy Cogswell, Edward Dugan, Cyrille Van Duer, Bob Amick.

PLANNING COMMITTEE

Created as a special committee to take charge of governmental organization and reshuffling as needed; this year, laboriously put together the new constitution; next year, will become a more permanent investigatory body.

Paul Fry, Tempie Brown, Bill Crawford, chairman; Sue Williams, Paul Ulrich.

ACTIVITIES BOARD

Vice-president's committee composed of chairmen from each of the Lodge activity committees; co-ordinates and supervises the working of its subservient groups.

Air Force ROTC leaders, always successful in training men to jump at their command, decided to vary the routine and see if they could do as well with frogs. And so the fun began—civilians were notified, and a campus-wide search for potential jumping-entries began. The first seasonal blades of grass no sooner appeared on the Oval than they were trampled down by hundreds of U. S. Government-shod feet—springtime is ROTC time, and every Monday the campus militia marched out to compete for best-drilled honors and provided an hour's entertainment for late-afternoon idlers. It's a soldier's life for underclassmen, plus two years more of it for those who want commissions.

Between Mondays, the Military marched without benefit of band, planned their formal, chose their queen, and trained frogs.

Military Ball

Time for the Military to loosen up a little and present spring quarter's most ambitious dance—the many uniforms gave it the proper June-Week-at-West-Point atmosphere, intermission featured a display drill by Angel Flight, and with appropriate pomp and circumstance, the year's last queen was crowned.

Military liveliness pervaded the air—despite uniforms, drill-field discipline was tempered with dance-floor informality.

But, ROTC being what it is, marching wasn't entirely forgotten—the Blue Hawks, fourteen strong, supplied the proper unmilitaristic music.

A queen is crowned—Col. Fred McManaway, guest officer from Great Falls, presents bouquet and trophy to the Pershing-Rifle—chosen Queen of the Military Ball, Greta Peterson.

And the votes poured in—enough to okay the new constitution after a quarter of uncertainty. Sigma Nus Content and Alevizakes (top) stayed close by the polls to check on the progress of the house's formidable running slate. DG Smith (center) conducted a last-minute write-in campaign, plugging an unsuspecting Camie Peterson for J-Council Chairman. When the dust had cleared, victors Larry Pettit and Jerry Beller took a well-earned rest after a week of intensive campaigning, then stepped into their new offices as ASMSU President and Business Manager.

Last and best-received of the year's visit lecturers was critic and commentator-on-thir in-general John Mason Brown, who spoke various aspects of American culture with insight of one who has been a part of it.

Cookies, candidated, and campaigns. "harbors of spring", made their annual appears as ASMSU election time rolled around. Des active noise-and-lemonade competition in both sides, the presidential contest once as showed signs of the campus intellectual—r rah split.

Contributions to the general turbulence of spring quarter: eight MSU students took the part of Lebanon in the eighty-college mock UN meetings in Seattle—polit'cal science department plans to put the annual events on its regular schedule; the Vanishing Americans returned in force as the fifth annual Indian Affairs Institute was held; campus females blossomed forth in chie, sleek sacks; and torsion-torsoed Elvis Presley was finally eclipsed—by a horde of "Purple People Eaters".

Students returned to campus ready to begin the quarter, found Russ Morgan and band waiting for them to help while away IBM-sponsored free time during registration.

Miscellany

With moral support from a chorus of her DG sisters, pie-eating champ Ina Jean Morris gobbled and slurped her way to victory in the Sig Alph Olympics. Despite such talent, her house finished second behind the arch-rival, trophy-getting Thetas.

A junior scientist explains his display to a crowd of visitors as the annual Science Fair brings the first of three waves of high-school students to the campus. Participants set up their exhibits in the Field House for adjudication; the winners went on to compete for scholarships at the National Fair in Flint, Michigan.

Sigma Nu has a unique way of handling the flurry of springtime pin-hanging—the stricken brother is tied to a tree, hoses, wastebaskets, and tomato juice cans are manned, and the girl in question tries to rescue her man through more water than that lawn sees all summer.

Aquamaid Pageant

Hard-working swimmin' women took their patrons off on an 80-day round-the-world cruise for the price of a ticket and two hours of their time. A proud week for postponement-weary Aquamaids; a last moment of glory for the old men's gym pool.

And it's all in the line of duty to IFC—special-committeemen-in-search-of-a-queen. Curt Jacobson and Tony Buzzetti examine Dawn DeGrey's qualifications with the help of their optimistically-engineered form. The winner: buxom DG Roxanne Shelton.

Greek Weekend

Annual Greek get-together preceded by some getting-together by Panhell and IFC to plan an outside picnic complete with variety show and queen selection. And so they took to the woods and returned to supply a meager crowd for the toga dance and Greek Goddess coronation.

Matrix Table

It's a woman's world, and those who are out to prove it were honored at the annual formal banquet presented by Theta Sigma Phi—awards were given to prominent Missoula women, and four University coeds were named outstanding members of their class. Principal speaker for the evening was Dr. Jessie M. Bierman, MSU '21 and professor of health at the University of California.

Adjournment into isolation on the shores of Flat Lake to thrash out campus problems and prove that there are still a great many students who are seriously interested in university planning. End of season, and rain-swept skies prevented the Grizzly baseball team from playing a final double-header with Montana State College, just as they had done in early April at the onset of the season. In between, the mood was hardly brighter—the overall record was 9-12, but it was a relatively poor showing for the Grizzlies: show 'em a southpaw pitcher and they'd panic. Post-season honors came to Chuck Bennett, who was named to the coaches' All-Skyline first team; Jerry Daley, senior shortstop, signed a professional contract with the Washington Senators' class D Superior farm team.

The MSU track team, thinnest in years, still managed to capture two dual meets, a second in the Western Division meet, and fifth in the conference meet.

Three all-time Montana University track and field records were set by Grizzly athletes during the 1958 season: Bill Anderson, junior half-miler, posted a non-winning time of 1:53 in the Western Division 880; Hal Utsond, broad-jump and javelin man, jumped 23 feet, 9½ inches in a dual meet with Utah State to set a new university mark in that event; and Ken Wersland threw the shot 51 feet in the conference meet for another record.

Grizzly golfers made it through the season with two wins against six losses, beating Utah State and MSC in the process, though both opponents avenged themselves in return matches. Finishing-up work began on the new University Links with the coming of suitable weather; completion was scheduled for sometime during the summer. Although early-season rain can be counted on to delay training, Grizzly duffers will at least have a place to call home.

Tennis

The tennis team, with three wins against four losses, had one of the most successful seasons a net squad has ever enjoyed at Montana.

Despite a late training start due to seasonal rain, the Grizzly netmen defeated Washington State in a non-conference meet and whipped Utah State twice.

For the first time since Montana entered the Skyline Conference, the Silvertips picked up not one, but two league tennis victories.

For athletically inclined men and women, a chance to participate in an organized series of inter-group sports events—physical education department oversees scheduling and handling, and Greek houses and independent groups scout up teams to compete in the year-long round of games featuring everything from ping-pong to touch football; trophies for the winners are provided by IFC and WRA.

Spring vacation, and MSU musical talent was once again put on display around the state—a busful of Jubileers (above) was followed a few days later by another of Symphonic Band members.

Budding painters and sculptors of the art department gathered up the fruits of a year's labor and brought them into the Lodge lobby for display; Claudia Sanders and Atiyeh Mahmoud were two of the many who paused to marvel and buy.

Fine Arts

Student-ensemble concerts and senior recitals stepped into the limelight as the Community Concert Little Series season came to an end; the All-State Music Festival brought hundreds of high school musicians to the campus to entertain and be entertained; ballet students pranced and pirouetted through another impressive Evening of Ballet, and touring musicians returned to begin "Carmen" rehearsals in earnest.

Choral Union

Formerly a heterogeneous group composed of equal parts those who were looking for a grade-point booster and those who actually liked to sing, Choral Union was pared down by tryouts into a very capable ensemble, is steadily improving. By way of proof, it appeared before the public early in the spring to present a refreshing program of light music that the more sedate A Cappella Choir tends to avoid.

Barendsen's Folly, they called it—until the group made its debut at the Christmas Convo and proved to be perfectly at ease in its program of old English Yuletide carols. Then, early in the spring, a concert of Shakespearean songs demonstrated that the Madrigal season does not necessarily coincide with the holidays. In repertoire, the singers are forced to specialize, but their specialty is indeed a pleasing addition to campus musical programs.

Jubileers

The musical elite—"Montana's Finest Voices"—who combine near-professional song styling with smooth choreography and showcase arrangements of ballads, Broadway hits, and folk tunes. Established masters of the special occasion appearance, they lent polish and flair to many of the year's more festive banquets and receptions, gave Nite Club Dance patrons something to talk about, and took off on a concert tour of the state. At their late-spring concert, the campus at large finally found what the shouting was about—and another successful year came to a close for the Jubileers as they spread out into M-formation and wound up their program with the traditional "Montana, My Montana"—there wasn't a dry eye in the house.

Amateur Night in Theaterland—paying out cash prizes instead of royalties, Masquers presented as their last program of the year the three winning entries in their first annual contest to tap the campus reserve of playwriting skill. After months of preparation and much Bizet work for the many dancers, musicians, and lay workers involved, the biennial all-school show went on stage with cast rehearsed and ready and anglicized libretto in high colloquial gear to present the drama of the village temptress who lures her corporal beyond the call of duty, ditches him for a toreador, and is finally conquered by the green-cyed monster. Vivid acting and polished singing on the part of mezzo Shaffer and her supporting cast overcame the strict, Spanish-dance formality of the opera's pattern passion and made Carmen's fling a musical affair to remember.

have trouble with grass but did wonders for sidewalks and people. Beautiful weather—students were hit hard, books weren't.

Underclassmen sweltered and swore; seniors crammed for comps and honor exams, tried on caps and gowns, and took off a week early to rest up for Commencement.

Classes

French conversation en plein air—Dr. Rioux conducts one of the horde of classes that made the seasonal exodus from stuffy buildings to the well-watered, dog-infested wide open spaces.

That most venerable of collegiate institutions, the Line, began to form at bookstore text lists the minute it thinned out at registration desks, brought with it hundreds of would-be purchasers of the last of the year's required reading.

University Administrators

CARL MCFARLAND
President

Himself a dedicated worker, and expecting much from those about him, President McFarland turned his efforts toward physical expansion and higher academic standards during his seven years with Montana State University. In April of 1959, he handed in his resignation to the State Board of Education rather than compromise his plans for further improvement of the University.

GORDON CASTLE
Acting President

A veteran administrator, having served as Dean of the Graduate School, Senior Academic Dean, and Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, Doctor Castle was appointed acting president following President McFarland's resignation and took on the many responsibilities of office, all the while retaining the friendliness and ability that has gained the respect of faculty and students.

HAROLD CHATLAND
Dean of the Faculty Academic Vice-President

ROBERT PANTZER
Executive Vice-President

The end product of the administration's complex functions of deciding policies, raising academic standards, improving the physical plant, coordinating the various schools and colleges, and setting the pace of progress is seen in the milestones passed by those who graduate from the University—theirs is the benefit.

STATE BOARD OF EDUCATION

Back for additional work and a master's degree, those who enter graduate school find new meanings for a few old phrases—hard work and education, among others. Distinguished by a perpetually harassed look and a certain serious interest in study, graduates are avid library frequenters, dedicated thesis writers, and bearers of the feeling that the time has come for them to leave camp activities to the younger generation.

Alumni Association

Publishers of the Alumni News Bulletin, designed to keep alumni in contact with each other and with the University; guardians of a monstrous set of records and files to keep track of every graduate. The Endowment Foundation, currently hard at work on the new chapel fund, is a zedest branch of the Alumni Association.

Hilda Fields, records secretary; Ross Miller, secretary-treasurer, Montana State University Alumni Association; Dee Vaage, clerk, Endowment-Foundation; Tommie Lu Middleton, secretary, Endowment Foundation.

The students of Montana State University have suffered a deep loss in the passing of the following professors emeriti, all of whom were alumni; their service to the University has ended, but their work shall never be forgotten.

*Dr. J. B. Speer, controller emeritus
Lucia Merriess, professor emerita of English
Charlotte Russell, law librarian emerita*

Public Service Division

Responsible for University promotion and the many varied activities of public relations; works with ASMSU Pub-Travel Committee to prepare for College and Career Days, supervises home study, adult education, and University extension work, and makes arrangements for Indian Affairs, Farm-Labor, and other campus Institutes.

Jeanne Southard, secretary; Homer Anderson, director; Mary Margaret Courtney, secretary, home study and adult education.

News Service

Oversees University publications—the MSU Guidebook, and a host of brochures; supplies campus news releases to state newspapers; and national wire services; provides extensive campus photo coverage for use in official releases.

STANDING: Maribeth Dwyer, news editor; Virginia Golden, publications editor; Cyrille Van Duser, hometown news.

Retiring Faculty

PAUL A. BISCHOFF

Professor of Spanish

Known as "Don Pablo" to his students. He received his B.A. in forestry and Spanish from MSU and spent twelve years as tropical manager for the Mengel Company in Central and South America. He returned to the States, where he received his M.A. from Oberlin College and came back to his alma mater to teach. He served as Store Board adviser, Interscholastic Housing Supervisor, and Faculty Chairman of the Montana Student Union Executive Committee for many years.

ROBERT C. LINE

Professor of Bus. Ad.

Graduated from MSU in 1918 and received his M.A. from the Harvard Graduate School of Business two years later. In his long term of service to Montana State University, he has served as Foreign Students' adviser, has initiated "distributive education" in the state, has served over one hundred state merchants as adviser, counselor, and teacher, and was responsible for the founding of the MSU Bureau of Business and Economic Research.

JOSEPH W. SEVERY

Professor of Botany

Graduated from Oberlin College, received his M.A. from Washington University, and his Ph.D. from the University of Wisconsin. Early in his teaching career, his infectious interest in his chosen field and related fields of wildlife and resource management became felt throughout the state and the Northwest. Professor Severy is listed in Who's Who in America and American Men of Science, has written widely in his field, and has served as Store Board adviser, Chairman of the Montana Fish and Game Commission, and Honorary President of the Montana Wildlife Federation. In 1953, he was granted the Nash Conservation Award, one of several such recognitions he has received.

JOHN F. SUCHY

Professor of Pharmaceutical Chemistry

Received a Ph.C.B.S. from MSU and his M.S. and Ph.D. from the University of Colorado. He is listed in American Men of Science, and has written many articles for the Journal of Pharmacology and Experimental Therapeutics, Journal of the American Pharmaceutical Association, and Proceedings of the Montana Academy of Science. He has served as adviser to pharmacy student organizations.

M. CATHERINE WHITE

Assistant Librarian, Reference Librarian

Received her B.A. and M.A. from MSU. She has become a nationally-recognized authority of Northwest history; in 1950, she edited and published David Thompson's Journals Relating to Montana and Adjacent Regions, 1808-1812. In addition to serving as an outstanding reference librarian, she also advised Mortar Board for many years.

Phi Kappa Phi

National scholastic honorary open to students from all departments of American universities and colleges. Phi Kappa Phi traditionally published the Grizzly Guide, a project which this year ran afoul of the IBM-revolution.

Dean Ellis Waldron, president
Marcia Smith, vice-president
Emma Lominaston, secretary
Dr. Ludvig Brownman, treasurer

Silent Sentinel

Senior honorary for men who have proven their worth as campus servants; originally organized as a secret society, and once disbanded for that reason, the organization's duties are characterized by rather vague, silent services to the campus. Its honor, for which it was established, has remained unsullied.

Stan Nicholson, president
Gary Kaiser, vice-president
Larry Nitz, secretary

Dr. Chatland, who emceed the awards presentations, hands Robbin Hough a letter stating he has won the $1500 Ryman Foundation Fellowship for distinctive scholarship in economics.

Senior Swingout—when the class of 1958 gathered at Main Hall and marched in a body down Hello Walk to the Awards Convo.

The AWS Lantern Parade—an impressive Commencement Week tradition, and a final moment of glory for senior women; dressed in caps and gowns and bearing Chinese lanterns, they marched down Main Hall steps onto the Oval, where they formed an "M" as a line of under-classwomen lighted a circle around them.

Commencement

Finis—another year gone by. But age lends wisdom to you and fortifies our work with some measure of tradition. We'll see many of you again next fall—those who are leaving for good will find like-minded relatives Earnestness and Dedication to take our place.

Sentinel Patrons—

We hereby wish to express our sincere appreciation to the below firms who so generously and graciously became patrons of the 1958 Sentinel. The support of such organizations plays an instrumental part in the successful publication of a good yearbook. It has been an honor for us to include them in the book, and we are proud to announce the support that they have given.

Requiem

—for the academic year 1958, which has gone wherever years go, leaving in its wake various and sundry memories which will soon fade out to join it, and this book you hold in your hand, an attempt to catch some of it on paper before it got completely away. I hope the book fulfills its purpose—I thought I knew what that was when the year first began, but there were times when I wasn't quite sure. If what has gone into these pages is appreciated as a variegated record of the University during this one year, now and even more in times to come when you stop for a minute and wonder just what things were like way back then—the year's work will be repaid with interest.

I have planned the book rather straightforwardly, despite appearances, in an attempt to keep the year intact rather than divide it up into ersatz blocks of similarities. I hope the finished product is not as confusing for you as its embryo was for me, when, every once in a while, the overall layout scheme looked like something perpetrated by a drunken silkworm. The School Spirit theme, which I think is quite apt, has been handled with a maximum of restraint to prevent the appearance of its having taken the book in hand and run off with it. I have avoided any crafty engineering of copy designed to draw a lump to the sentimental throat in the far-off future; in that respect, a college year is a tricky thing to handle—I hope I have done it well enough to suit you. I have editorialized to avoid stale yearbook objectivity, not to create issues where none existed.

From vital statistics to apologies—first and foremost, to all of you for the late delivery date, which was due in large measure to our move to new quarters—set us behind an even quarter, it did, and for a while we were considering passing out Sentinels as Christmas presents. Next, I apologize to anyone whose name we may have misspelled or whom we may have in any way offended, robbed, swindled, misplaced, failed to index, or caused to commit suicide in the course of production. Lastly, to the Ashton Engraving Company and the University Printing Department for our falling so far and so steadily behind.

And, for the many who were of great help during the year—thanks, and thanks again. Thanks from me to the entire staff, from associates to indexers, for a job well done—I hope you like your book. Thanks to Cyrile Van Duser, for keeping me set straight as to just what I was doing; to my parents, for putting up with me as I scattered Sentinel-to-be all over the house and snarled when approached; to Claud Lord and the University printers, for making such a handsome book out of such hair-raising dummies; to Frank Graff of the Ashton Engraving Company in Butte, for not suing when we missed deadline after deadline; to Dick Harris and Stan Gilbert of the Central Photographic Facility, for the use of many of their negatives and much of their time; to Dean Cogswell, Ken and Marnie Cooper, Ed Dugan, Bo Brown, Marcus Bourke, J. D. Coleman, Bob Dundas, Mary Nichol, Bill Retchin and H. Hartman of the S. K. Smith Cover Company in Los Angeles; to those who identified pictures and supplied information, usually in emergencies; and to anyone who at any time came up and wished me luck—thanks, as I have said, again.

The Requiem extends to the 1958 Sentinel staff also, which with the final production of the book gathered up its index cards, pica sticks, and what have you, and quietly faded away to make room for Jack and his '59 staff. With my last breath—best of luck, Jack.

It's been an interesting year.
